BAKER'S WILL

His Wife and Four Children the Principal Legatees.

OTHER RELATIVES NAMED

ST. MARK'S AND ST. MARY'S HOSPITALS REMEMBERED.

Youngest Child Born Since the Will Was Made, and Is Not Provided For—Lewis S. Hills Named as Executor and Guardian—Estate Will Inventory Over $100,000.

Copies of the last will and testament of the late James T. Little were yesterday afternoon sent to the members of the family, and the instrument will probably be filed in the probate court today. The will is dated Oct. 26, 1894, and is witnessed by Eliza A. Smith and Edgar S. Hills.

The inventory of the estate has not yet been completed, but it will probably be somewhere between $100,000 and $150,000.

Fannie Maria, Clara and Roumanian, daughters of the deceased, and his son, Fernand T., are bequeathed $10,000 each, and Eliza A. Smith, daughter of Mrs. Little by a former husband, is bequeathed $3,500.

James A. Little, Charles H. Oliphant, Charles F. Decker, William L. Stillson and James Decker, all sons of the deceased, are remembered to the extent of $250 each.

Five aunts, Harriet Decker Hanks, Maria Decker Turpin, Martha Little, Elizabeth Decker and Marie Decker, also get $250 each.

St. Mark's and St. Mary's hospitals are bequeathed $250 each.

The executor, Lewis S. Hills, the household furniture and effects, and the remainder of the estate is to be equally divided between Mrs. Little and the four children of the deceased mentioned above.

Lewis S. Hills is named as executor of the will and guardian of the minor children, and in case that Mr. Hills declines to act, Judge Le Grand Young is named as executor and guardian.

It is also provided that in the event of both of the above gentlemen declining to act, John H. Winder is to be appointed.

The property is to go to the executor as trustee for the legatees, and which ever of the three gentlemen shall act as executor, is not required by the will to give bonds.

Since the will was made a child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Little, and as no provision is made for it by codicil or otherwise, it is very likely that completion of the will, which the courts will be required to settle.

The clever company of amateurs who left a pleasant impression after their previous rendition of "Harvest" at the Grand, repeated the performance before a fair audience last evening at the theatre. The gathering was mostly made up of friends, and there was a good deal of warm applause as well as a generous distribution of flowers to the ladies. The performance showed the amateur players in a very favorable light, and the program was well received.

Union Pacific Does Not Want To Abolish The Feed In Transit Rates—General Manderson, General Solicitor of the Burlington, In the City—New Road In California—Cars Becoming Scarce—Other Railroad News.

The western lines are having more trouble. The general passenger agents of the lines were in session yesterday, according to the dispatches, far into the night, considering what should be done in the event the Canadian Pacific carries out its threat and makes a still further reduction in the fare from St. Paul to the northwest Pacific coast.

The Canadian Pacific has threatened to make the rate $10 lower than at present, which would make the fare across the continent $25 from St. Paul.

The result of the session was nil. Nothing was done which would shed any light upon the matter and another session will be held today.

It was decided tonight to increase from three to five the number of persons who must travel in one party via the Missouri river gateway in order to secure the benefits of the reduced rates to the Pacific coast. All tickets, except those via St. Paul, will be sold at the regular tariff rates with a rebate equal to the reduction made in the fare from St. Paul.

Under the plan adopted all tickets via the Missouri river gateway will be sold at present prices and the amount of the rebate will be increased as much as the present rates are reduced.

CHIEF DEVINE'S COMPLAINT.

HEARING ON CHARGES AGAINST FIREMAN JORDAN.

RECOMMENDATION FOR DISMISSAL FOR INTOXICATION—CREDITOR CROWDING A PATROLMAN—MATTERS CONSIDERED BY THE FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION.

Fire Chief Devine believes that, in the interest of harmony and in the line of a disciplinary policy, whenever he recommends the discharge of a member of the department for an infraction of the rules, the city council of council of review, through the department committee, should concur in his action instead of modifying the sentence. The chief holds that experience has taught him that the imposing of a lighter sentence than that recommended by him tends only, in the great majority of cases, to insubordination.

Chief Devine so expressed himself last evening before the council committee on fire and police, at the conclusion of the hearing of the charge of intoxication preferred against Fireman Jordan.

According to the information presented by the chief to the mayor and council and referred to the committee, Jordan was alleged to have been so intoxicated on the evening of Feb. 21, as to unfit him for duty. In the communication the chief recommended the fireman's dismissal, dating from the time of his suspension.

Chief Devine made a statement before the committee. He stated that the day named in the complaint was his day off and while enjoying his freedom he met an old friend, with whom he took a few drinks. Realizing his condition, he endeavored to get his furlough extended, but not succeeding he reported for duty at headquarters not quite so early as at 6:15 p. m. In about half an hour after his coming and he looked up and drove the chemical engine to the fire below the White House. His wagon was the first one out.

Jordan declared that he was not addicted to drink, even on his holidays, and it was his purpose to practice total abstinence in the future. He believed that his record in the department for the last five years would commend him to the merciful consideration of the committee.

Chief Devine's statements did not materially improve the declarations of the accused, whom, said the trustworthy and efficient fireman, except that at rare intervals he became intoxicated. The chief added, however, that Jordan acted insolently when reproved for his indiscretion and informed that, in pursuance of a previous threat, official cognizance of his misconduct, if repeated, would be taken.

A VITAL QUESTION WITH THE CHIEF.

The feature which the chief considered of vital importance was the bad effect upon the men when the recommendation of dismissal and the reviewing authority pronounced a lighter punishment. Moreover, he was concerned that suspensions should be otherwise be provocative of vindictiveness and acts of insubordination. During the regime of the commission, the question of intoxication was prevalent, and he did not want to see the new administration make a mistake in dealing with this class of offenses, however mitigating were the circumstances. In his opinion, the chief's policy was wholly reasonable by the mayor and council, should not be over-riden nor questioned. With only such authority, he believed, the department could be properly managed.

The officers of the Twenty-fourth infantry, at Fort Douglas, say they were very much surprised at the following report which appeared in the Tribune yesterday morning:

"Orders having been received from department headquarters, which, in turn,
